Two indicted on murder charge

Positive ID, cause of death still unknown

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

Two men alleged to have killed 54-year-old Dry Ridge resident Randall Russ were indicted Nov. 21 by a Fleming County grand jury.

Charles Black, 50, of Hillsboro, and Kevin Howard, 38, of Owingsville, were indicted on charges of murder, theft by unlawful taking, first-degree robbery, kidnapping and tampering with physical evidence.

Howard also is charged with being a persistent felony offender.

The indictments stem from a body discovered Oct. 1 in Fleming County.

The body, which has not been positively identified, is believed to be that of Randall Russ, who had been missing for nearly two months.

Despite the discovery of Russ' vehicle and a body in Fleming County, Kentucky State Police said they are awaiting DNA results before positively identifying the remains.

Authorities are also waiting on results of an autopsy before determining the cause of death.

The minimum sentence for murder is 20 years in prison while the maximum is the death penalty.

"The death penalty or life in prison are two major sentences that can be reached with a charge this severe," Clarke told The Ledger Independent newspaper in Maysville.

Clarke said he has not yet determined if he will seek the death penalty.

Black told detectives that he and Howard were with Russ at his residence around Aug. 15 in Fleming County.

Black alleges that Howard told him to go next door to a neighbor's house for awhile.

About 45 minutes later, Howard yelled for Black to return to the residence, according to a search warrant affidavit.

When he returned, Black alleges that he discovered Russ lying in the back bedroom, bound at his feet and legs and gagged.

Black said Russ was dead.

The two men then carried Russ' body into the back of Russ' vehicle and drove it to Ringos Grange City Road, along the river.

Black told detectives that he and Howard dug a grave and put Russ in it.

According to the arrest citation, Black said he assisted in burning the grave, along with a mattress taken from the residence Russ was removed from.

The detectives went to the location given by Black and discovered the grave, which had concrete cinder blocks placed over it.

Black also told detectives that he drove and left the deceased man's vehicle at Fort Boonesborough State Park and used the man's ATM card to withdraw money.

Black is being lodged in the Mason County Detention Center and Howard is lodged in the Montgomery County Detention Center,

Both are being held on a $1 million bond.

The suspects will appear in Fleming County Circuit Court on Dec. 5 for arraignment.

1 dead, 2 injured in I-75 wrecks

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

Two separate accidents snarled traffic Nov. 30 on Interstate 75, leaving one dead and injuring two.

Although the accidents were hours apart, both occurred in nearly the same location on northbound I-75 in Crittenden.

Kenton County Police were dispatched to a single-vehicle accident at 4:53 p.m. near mile marker 166.5, just north of Crittenden.

Investigators determined that a 2006 Buick, driven by William Peacher, 75, of Hamilton, Ohio, was traveling northbound on I-75 when he lost control.

The vehicle slid in and out of the right-hand lane of travel before exiting the Interstate on the east side.

The Buick then slid down an embankment and hit a tree with the driver's side of the vehicle sustaining severe damage.

BOOKS KNOW NO BOUNDARIES

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

Ninety-year-old Arlene Eckler still picks up a book every day, sometimes reading until 2 a.m. in the morning.

The Dry Ridge resident maybe in a wheelchair, but that doesn't stop the Grant County Public Library from coming to her.

"It's wonderful," Eckler said. "Before that somebody would have drive me to the library and put my wheelchair in the car. I'd look over stuff and by the time I got through with the trip I was tired."

"This last group there was an autobiography of Tony Bennett," she said. "I like him. I love his music. He has two or three good CDs. As I read, I thought he's a better singer than he is a writer."

As part of the library's Outreach Services program, Sebrena Harris, outreach coordinator, takes books to Eckler's home every two weeks.

"She's really good. All I told her was I didn't like anything sexy," Eckler said with a laugh. "I like historical novels and some western. I don't want anything that's about killing and murder."

Harris visits and chats with Eckler when she brings her books.

Sometimes they talk about trips Harris has taken since Eckler used to enjoy traveling.

Along with her homebound patrons, Harris, who has worked for the library since August 2012, has 37 patrons, including residents from the Jonesville Rest Home, Parkview Manor and Grant Manor.

"I think it's beneficial because it allows patrons to receive books on a regular basis," Harris said. "Without this delivery, they may not be able to read as much as they would like. What I enjoy most about my job is getting to know my patrons. We discuss what types of books they enjoy reading and what they do not like. This information helps me to select their books. If I have read the same book, we discuss it and we also chat a little. I also enjoy presenting the programs at Jonesville Rest Home. We do crafts and I read books to them."

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW:

The Grant County Public Library offers programs for patrons who cannot visit the library including:

- Outreach services - Books can be brought to your home every two weeks.
- Library Express - Books are dropped off/picked up at boxes located in Crittenden and Corinth.
- For more information about outreach programs, call Sebrena Harris at 859-824-2080.

4-H receives State Farm grant

By Jamie Baker-Nantz
Editor

The Grant County 4-H program benefitted from a $78,863 grant from State Farm Insurance to fund an aquabotics program.

The program is aimed at getting students interested in technical type jobs involving robotics.

"When you talk to people in the community why there's not more employers it's because the workers aren't ready," said Lamar Fowler, Grant County's Extension Agent for 4-H.

"My hope is this will spark interest for kids in careers in robotics or related fields and will encourage them to move towards higher education," he said.

The program isfor students in third through eighth grades at both Williamstown and Grant County schools.

Students from Grant County High School are mentoring the younger students and assisting the elementary and middle school students with the project.

The finished product will be an underwater robot with a camera and GPS system, which could assist emergency services with rescue work. It could also be used to map the volume of water in a lake.

The grant, the largest of its kind awarded in Kentucky, will pay for an instructor, transportation, materials and snacks for participants.

"If we can get it going and have a good response, we can keep it going beyond the grant," Fowler said.

The program began several weeks ago with students at Williamstown Middle School being the first to complete the program. Students at Dry Ridge Elementary started the program earlier this week.

Fowler said the program will visit all schools and continue through April 2015.

In January, a 4-H robotics club will also begin meeting.

Fowler's hope is that there will be 20 participants from each school.

"My hope is that the students will work in groups of four with one being the computer specialist, one being the technical engineer and the others rounding out the team," he said. "We want them to learn to work together and they'll get more out of it."

The grant from State Farm was part of the State Farm Youth Advisory Board. Grant County 4-H was only one of three organizations in Kentucky to receive a youth advisory board grant for the 2014-2015 school year.

State Farm was founded in 1922. The company celebrated its 92nd anniversary this year.

Carolyn Thomas Thompson owns the State Farm Agency in Williamstown. She serves on the 4-H Advisory Council and is also a strong supporter of the Grant County Livestock Program.

"Although we've seen a lot of changes over the years, one thing has remained the same. We started as a company wanting to do the right thing and that remains our focus," Thompson said. "You've all heard our tagline, 'like a good neighbor.' Part of that is making a positive difference in the communities where we work and live."

Thompson said part of State Farm's belief is that for communities to thrive, young people must be empowered to address real issues and problems and one way that is accomplished is through the Youth Advisory Board, which is comprised of 30 students, ages 17 to 20, who design and implement a $5 millon service learning initiative.

"My philosophy is that if we take this money and one child was positively impacted, then the program was a success," Fowler said.

Melton participates in circuit clerk fall college in Frankfort

Tina Melton

Grant County Circuit Court Clerk Tina Melton participated in the 2014 Circuit Court Clerks Fall College that took place recently at the Administrative Office of the Courts in Frankfort. The AOC provided the education program for the state's circuit court clerks

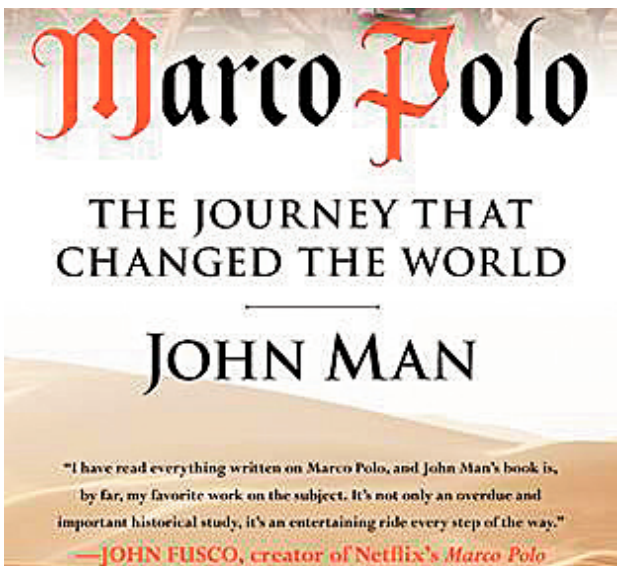

The circuit court clerks attended courses on court record retention, the expungement process, bond procedures, sovereign citizens and apostille, which involves certifying the authenticity of foreign documents such as adoption papers. The college also included sessions on domestic violence and court technology.

The circuit clerks also attended sessions on helping people who are choosing to represent themselves in court cases rather than using an attorney and civil legal aid for those who cannot afford an attorney. Circuit clerks cannot provide legal advice but can give information on court processes to ensure everyone has access to the courts.

Other sessions covered the types of records the state public defender's office seeks from Offices of Circuit Court Clerk in particular cases and Senate Bill 200, the juvenile justice reform that the governor recently signed into law.

Another session focused on the Circuit Court Clerk Conduct Commission that was established by Supreme Court order in January 2013 and the first ever Circuit Court Clerk Code of Conduct that the Supreme Court authorized earlier this year. The commission will investigate and conduct hearings on alleged misconduct and the code sets ethical standards for elected circuit court clerks. Chief Justice of Kentucky John D. Minton Jr. recently praised all the circuit court clerks for their support of the commission and code of conduct.

The college included 14 hours of continuing education credit for the circuit clerks.

Grant County Public Library December Book of the Month

Title: Marco Polo: The Journey that Changed the World by John Man

The author traces the reported journey of Marco Polo from his home in Venice to modern-day China. Comparing Marco Polo's descriptions of his travels with those of other travelers to the same locations, Man concludes that Marco Polo did indeed travel to China and his travels are not outright falsehoods.

Why should people read this book? Netflix has used Man's book about Marco Polo as the basis for its new, original series debuting this month. But like all television stories, you have the read the book to get the full story!

(Wynita Worley, community services librarian, selected this month's Book of the Month.)

We need you to help us
BEAT HUNGER!

Mission: To provide food, products and services to help people who are in crisis at this moment and help them overcome barriers in their life.

Goal: To help families feel easier about being forced to make a choice of buying food or paying rent/bills, or taking a sick family member to a doctor.

Hunger knows not whether you are young or old or white or black. People that are hungry tend to not talk about it. People will do what they can but lack the stability to improve their situation.

Hunger is also a cause of poverty, and thus of hunger. By causing poor health, low levels of energy, and even mental impairment, hunger can lead to even greater poverty by reducing people's ability to work and learn, thus leading to even greater hunger.

VIEWPOINT

WORTH REPEATING:

"I know God will not give me anything I can't handle. I just wish that He didn't trust me so much." - Mother Teresa

OUR OPINION

Don't be fooled; local charities need you

'Tis the season of giving and many will open their hearts and wallets to give this holiday and that is a good thing.

However, the issue for some unsuspecting people is that they get scammed trying to do an act of kindness.

Shoppers need to be mindful that cyber criminals use aggressive and creative ways to steal money and personal information.

The old rule of thumb is something sounds too good to be true, then it probably is.

Consumers should be aware of sites you are not familiar with or special coupons or links, as well as posts of social media sites that appear to offer vouchers or gift cards, especially free items. Beware of links that your friends are appearing to share with you.

When purchasing gift cards online, be leery of auction sites selling discount or bulk offers of gift cards.

Consumers should be on the lookout for mobile apps designed to steal personal information. You should always research the company selling or giving away apps and look online for third party reviews before installing an app from an unknown source.

Tickets to theaters, concerts and sporting events are popular gift items. If you purchase or receive tickets as a gift, do not post photos of the tickets to social media sites. Protect the barcodes on tickets like you would your credit card number. You should never allow the barcode to be seen on social media because scammers can create a ticket using the barcode obtained from the social media sites and resell it.

If you are in need of extra cash this time of year, beware of sites that offer work from home deals.

To avoid becoming a victim of fraud, here are some tips:

• Check your credit card statement routinely.

• Protect your credit card numbers from "wandering" eyes.

• Do not respond to unsolicited spam email.

• Be cautious of e-mail containing photos. Often times the files contain viruses.

• Avoid filling out forms contained in an e-mail message that ask for personal information.

• Verify any requests for personal information from any business or financial institution by contacting them using the main contact information from their official website.

• If you are requested to act quickly or there is an emergency, it may be a scam.

There are also many local options when it comes to holiday giving.

Various organizations/groups in Grant County will use the money donated locally to help families and causes in our community.

• Salvation Army/Grant County Unit – Donations can be made during the "Red Kettle" campaign on weekends at Wal-Mart in Dry Ridge until Christmas or by calling 859-992-9394.

• Shop With A Cop – Donations can be made at the Shop With A Cop Fund at any Forcht Bank location or by calling Sheriff Chuck Dills at 859-824-3333.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Everything happens for a reason

Camille
MCCLANAHAN

Editorial Assistant

I know it sounds cliché but everything does happen for a reason.

A little over a year before I had started my job at the News I was laid off from my current job for a little over a year and that time in my life was highly stressful.

As too many people know, it's is a desperate feeling to be laid off. It can be compared to pulling the rug out from underneath someone.

I was thrilled and had a sense of overwhelming I'm-going-be-okay feeling when I received the confirmation that I was hired as a full-time employee at the Grant County News.

There was a familiarity and a sense of this is where I needed to be when I was hired.

I have grown so much as a writer and photographer and have met some amazing people while here and I can't wait to see what the future holds for me at the News.

But while working one day, I received a call that turned my world upside down, my father-in-law had terminal cancer.

I had been here a month when he was diagnosed.

Like family everyone in the News office was so supportive and Jamie Baker-Nantz helped so much because she had been there twice.

She was truly a Godsend in the scariest and most heartbreaking time of my life, as was everyone who had a hand in making the battle with cancer and saying goodbye to a loved one just a little bit easier to take.

If I hadn't been hired at the Grant County News and met so many wonderful people from the Grant County Relay For Life to the people I work and spend the majority of my time with. I honestly don't know how I would've made it through.

We are a family here at the News, we have laughed until we've cried and cried until we've laughed. But that's what family does.

I can't think of a better place or group of people I'd rather be working with, sure we all have bad days but then there's the really great ones too.

Everything happens for a reason.

It has been said "smiling is infectious, you can catch it like the flu. Someone smiled at me today, and I started smiling too." - Author Unknown

I have talked to people around the country that live different lives and live in different cultures. I have touched so many people just by asking them how they are doing.

Simple words and most people at least say this once a day but they can mean so much.

It has been an on-going joke for quite some time that I would strike up a conversation with a rock if it would talk back.

As a child I was horribly nosy, even when I shouldn't have been. But that's what makes me sucessful as a writer and photographer.

I have an insatiable appetite to know things about people, things, anything really. I can find interest in most things.

By being nosy and asking questions, you can learn but you may also learn by just watching and listening. Finding this balance is difficult.

Sometimes I put my foot in my mouth so to speak and regret it almost instantaneously.

But I keep putting myself out there.

Just remember that when your urge to talk to that complete stranger next to you it's for a reason, maybe it's something bigger at play.

God has a plan for all of us and even though it might not make sense to us we just have to have faith and a whole lot of patience.

Share a smile because you just might make a difference in someone else's life and that is the greatest feeling in the world, to be selfless and to help someone.

GUEST COLUMN

New and improved means we had old and lousy?

In my continued praise of all new technologies, I ask you to return with me to kinder, gentler, and simpler time, not so long ago. We need never forget when whence we cameth.

It amazes me to be in a crowd anywhere today and watch people play with their smartphones, checking Facebook updates, texting, or surfing the Internet. Seems they're doing anything other than actually making phone calls.

As for the new technology with mobile cellphones, I confess that I'm hooked to mine. I love being able to send texts to friends, church members or family. Do I want to go back to what we had in 1960?

Those of you over 50 no doubt remember the rotary dial telephone that was actually attached with a cord and you either sat or stood next it to talk.

When you had to call a company during business hours, a real human being answered the phone and directed your inquiry to another real live person.

And, there was no "push one for English," or "push two to have your call outsourced to a country where English may qualify as a third or fourth language."

I'm in no way bigoted or racist as I have lived in four different countries and visited scores of others.

I'm all for ""Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free" — I just would like to understand the person on the other end of "the blower," as Archie Bunker was fond of saying.

In addition, does someone have to check their phone for text messages every two minutes?

Larry
ROWELL

Guest Columnist

I've seen people do it in church and while I know that all things are possible with God, we need to shut the phones off in church and listen to God.

And while I'm on a roll here, remember the days when getting money from a bank meant entering the bank and writing a check made payable to "cash," or yourself?

And what if you wanted to make a purchase in a local business but left your checkbook at home?

Businesses in my hometown kept "counter checks" — blank checks from different local banks that you wrote your name on and then signed.

There were no ATMS, credit or debit cards — it was either pay with cash or a good check.

In addition to having to adapt to new technology, I fear there's also a side-effect that comes with each new gadget and gizmo.

Each new advancement has to up the "wow" factor or it risks just being another something that adds to our already burgeoning list of gadgets.

It really takes a lot now for us to say "WOW!"

When's the last time you were truly amazed at riding in an automobile? Just 100 years ago, our ancestors took weeks to make a trip in a horse drawn wagon that we can now make in hours in our sleek, shiny machines.

I'm really trying to embrace these new fangled machines as they can be used for good. We just don't need to let them dominate our lives to the point where we cease talking with people in day-to-day conversations.

Well, dear readers, that's enough for today. I have to turn off my iPad, check my mobile phone and text my wife to see what's for supper.

DOWN AND DIRTY

Live or fresh-cut?

It is hard to believe that the holiday season is upon us! I have family visiting for Christmas so this means a bigger tree than normal; if you are going to travel to come see us this is the least I can do. Plus, it is fun to find the "perfect" tree that fits your space and holds precious ornaments with style.

So which type of tree reflects your holiday? Do you get a fresh cut, artificial, balled and burlapped? Or do you just go out-of-town and let someone else do the decorating? All are certainly acceptable but there are different rules that apply to each. Obviously the artificial ilk has few restrictions but there are some things to remember if you get a fresh cut or balled burlapped tree for planting after the holidays.

When choosing a fresh cut tree use your sense of smell and touch: fresh trees will be more fragrant and the needles will be flexible yet firm. Certainly take into account the type of tree because the needles of a white pine will be softer than that of a Fraser fir. Also check the freshness by bouncing the butt of the trunk on the ground a couple of times to see how many needles actually fall from the tree. A few green and brown needles are normal.

Jeneen
WICHE
Weekend Gardener

If you are not quite ready to bring the tree in once you have purchased it then just get it in water and store it outside in the shade. The sooner you can get the trunk recut and in water the better…and in order to get your tree to drink you must have the stump end recut. The original cut sealed over long ago so no water will be absorbed unless a fresh cut is made. Get the folks at the garden center to recut the end just before you leave and pop it into a pail of water as soon as you get home. Ideally, the trees will drink about a quart of water a day when fresh.

The smaller, the better

The majority of fresh-cut trees that are purchased in Kentuckiana come from tree farms out of North Carolina. Local u-cut operations are an option for live-cut trees, too. Check with your county extension office for local growers.

Live-cut trees are a renewable resource and one that you can reuse and recycle in the garden once you are finished. IRemove the branches in early spring before new growth begins.

Purchasing a balled and burlapped tree for the holidays is a popular tradition for many families but it takes some special care. A live evergreen is not well suited to the indoor environment during the holidays. Our homes are typically dry and warm and if a live evergreen (intended to live outside) is in this environment too long it will break dormancy; the tree should stay in the house for about one week, tops. Keep your house as cool as you can and make sure that the root ball stays moist.

The logistics of having a live b and b tree can be tricky. Root balls can easily weigh 75 to 100 pounds so moving the tree in and out of the house is no easy task. Keep the size as small as possible; preferably no taller than 6 feet. A smaller tree can be moved around more easily without damaging the root ball; we want to make sure that the root ball remains intact and doesn't loosen or crumble under the weight of the tree.

Since planting will take place shortly after Christmas be prepared for the weather: the predictions are calling for another really cold winter for 2014-2015 so consider digging your hole now and cover it with plastic so it is ready to go and you can get the tree in the ground right after Christmas.

VERSE OF THE WEEK:

"No man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will hold to the one and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.!" Matthew 6:24 (KJV)

RELIGIOUS VIEWS

Cling to Jesus!

A while back I worked for a company in which my job was to transport the special needs to their daycare locations though out the Greater Cincinnati area. While working for the company I had the pleasure of meeting a man named Asaph, who was from the heart of Africa. Even when I first starting working in the company, it did not take long to connect with Asaph, being that he was a strong Christian man himself.

Each day Asaph and I would share our own personal experiences we've had with the Lord and revelations that we received from the study of the Word. However, there is one particular revelation that he shared with me that still sticks to my mind like glue and that is the revelation of "Clinging to Jesus."

My friend began by painting a vivid mental picture: "Brother Justin, imagine you holding on to Jesus and you are holding onto Him so close that nothing has even a chance of coming between you. While you are holding on to Jesus, here comes Satan from walking to and fro, holding different boxes in his hands, decorated to be appealing to the eye. In each box there is a prize and you can have as many as you want. Satan places these things before your eyes in test of your desire.

The catch is that you have to let go of Jesus to grasp a hold of one of the boxes and you have to make the decision of is Jesus worth holding onto, or is my curiosity going to get the best of me that I look in the boxes. Let's say that you let go of Jesus for the boxes. You look in box one and in that box is a bad relationship.

In box two is riches and fame. Your decision is to take both, so that now you have let Jesus totally go to receive your prize." By this time my friend had me doing some soul searching in my own life as he continues to say, "Brother, the reason we struggle, or find ourselves in a mess that we did not imagine we could get in is that we have let go of Jesus!" Even scripture backs up what Asaph was teaching me, when Jesus was teaching his disciples in the book of Matthew 6:24 it says, "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one and love the other; or else he will hold to the one and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon."

Justin
LIPSCOMB
Youth Pastor's Corner

To "hold" in the Greek means to "cling to." Mammon in the Greek as well, means "wealth personified." So literally sometimes in our life there are things that we cling to that take the place of God! You cannot hold on to both Jesus and the other stuff. Oh how good the enemy makes sinful things out to be. I can imagine Satan polishing the apple just before Eve went up to the tree to make it nice and shiny and make it appealing to eat. As Adam and Eve grasped the apple, they lost grip on their relationship with God. I am also reminded of Esau, when he so earnestly labored in the field and came home from a hard day's work. He thought himself to die by reason of hunger, so at his request Jacob, his brother, fixed him a bowl of soup. The catch was that in exchange for the bowl of soup, Esau would have to hand over his birthright, or the right to all of his father's inheritance. To put in perspective of how monumental this decision was; if Esau would have clung to his birthright, the future generations would have noticed God as "the God of Abraham, Isaac and Esau."

Instead of clinging to his birthright. " Esau clung to selfish desires and lost grip on his favor with God that was rightfully his as the firstborn son of Isaac, which means that in the old testament God is mainly known as the Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. It is also stated in the Bible as God himself saying, "Jacob have I love, but Esau have I hated," all because he did not cling to what God gave him. There are many other examples in the Word of these cases, but already it seems to be much more appealing to hold on to Jesus instead of things of the world! I grew up with the saying, "Sin will take you farther than you want to go, keep you longer than you want to stay and cost you more than you are willing to pay." Romans 6:23 states, "For the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." What sounds better: having to pay the wage of death for your sin, or being sorry for your sin and repenting to the point of turning to God to spend eternity with Him?

Option two sounds so much better to me. Jesus died for me and has everything I need so I wouldn't have to face that death because of my sin. Clinging to joy sounds better than clinging to depression. Clinging to the freedom Jesus provides sounds better than clinging to addictions. Clinging to Jesus is far beyond better than clinging to Satan and the things he has to offer! You can only hold to one. In this Thanksgiving season, it would be meet to show the Lord thanks by clinging to Him and earnestly living for Him. Now is not the time to quit, throw in the towel and give up on God. If you have read this and feel God dealing with you, please pray! If you draw near to God, he will draw near to you! Joshua told Israel, "But cleave unto the Lord your God…" In the words of my friend Asaph, "Brother/Sister (your name), cling to Jesus and never let Him go!" Nothing in this world is worth letting go of Jesus for!

Coach believes Braves can be 'real special'

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

Experience and depth should lead to a successful basketball season for the Grant County Braves.

The team finished with a 15-14 record last season, including winning the 32nd district championship with a one-point overtime victory over Simon Kenton.

"Our team has a lot of returnees with seven players returning who started at least two games last season as well as a total of 502 varsity games of experience returning," said head coach Brandon Grammer. "Our 10 players in the senior class definitely is a plus for us as we have a lot of depth at almost every position. We are guard-oriented but have the bigs to play against anyone in the eighth region.

Grammer said he will look toward four returning starters as key to the team's season.

Point guard Austin Johnson is a three-year varsity starter who Grammer said has a great feel for the game and is the Braves' leader.

Two-year starter Seth Adkins is a guard whose combination of footwork and strength is what gives him a great advantage over his defender, said Grammer.

Jordan Saylor, a two-year varsity starter at the forward, has tremendous versatility and athleticism, said his coach.

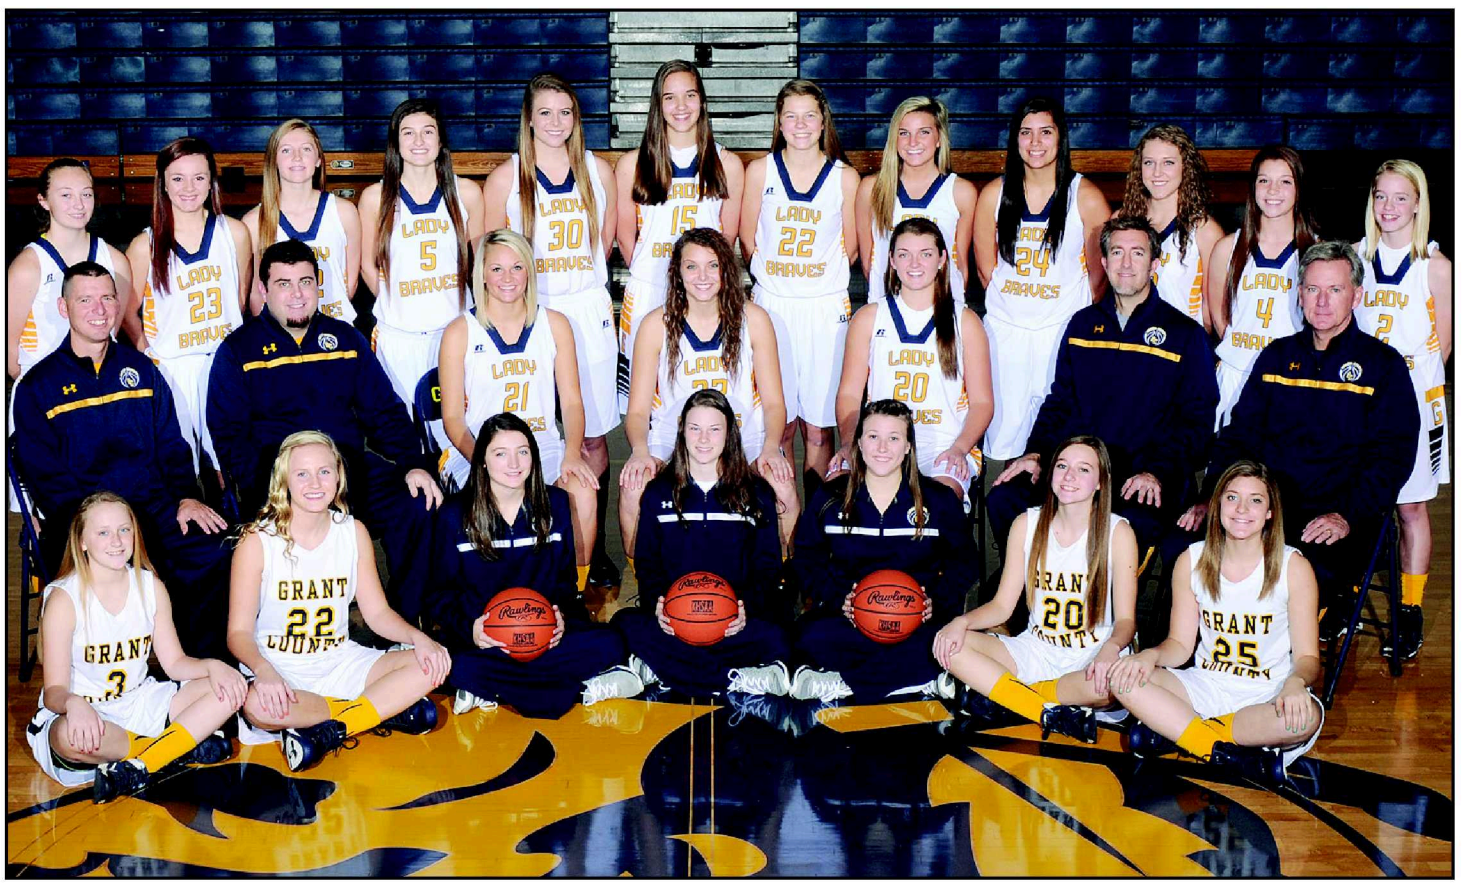

Grammer said the difference maker on the team will be Austin Schneider, a two-year varsity starting center with great athleticism, size and strength on the interior.

"Our biggest strength is depth and scoring ability," Grammer said. "We have a lot of guys that can play and a lot of them can fill up the box score. We have a balanced attack that is tough to guard. We will utilize our athleticism and depth to wear our opponents down defensively."

Defense will be the key to having a successful year, said Grammar, adding that replacing outside shooting from last year's seniors will be the biggest obstacle.

Looking at the schedule, Grammer sees Louisville Male, Louisville Eastern, Lafayette, Scott County, Holmes and Simon Kenton as the toughest opponents.

"This group has a chance to be real special," Grammer said. "This is one of the most talented teams from top to bottom that I have had the chance to coach. We have very few weaknesses in terms of personnel and we will be a tough matchup for anyone to play against. I hope our team is cutting down nets at Henry County for the eighth region championship and I believe that we have a chance to surprise people throughout the state."

Macy Wright leads Lady Braves into 2014-2015 season

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

The Grant County Lady Braves hope to improve on a 10-16 record last season.

The basketball team lost to Walton-Verona in the first round of the district tournament to end the season.

Coach Shawn West said he looks forward to a successful year, with a good mix of players from all grade levels and several returning players.

"Senior Macy Wright is a four-year starter and an all-region player," West said. "She should place the team on her back and carry the load. EJ Kearns, Destiny Chaidez, Karlyn McCoy and Shelby Harmeyer all started games at the varsity level last year and should all have an impact."

Taking care of the basketball and playing solid defense will be key to a successful 2014-15 season, said West.

The Lady Braves will once again face cross-town rivals Williamstown, Simon Kenton and Walton-Verona in what West describes as "one of the toughest districts in the state."

"District opponents are the toughest games because of how many times we see each other, knowing the personnel and what's on the line," he said. "Our goal it to be traveling to Carrollton come March (for the regional tournament and I have all the belief in the world with them."

Young GCHS wrestling team looks to gain experience

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

The Grant County Braves wrestling team will be young and inexperienced as they try to replace last year's seniors.

The team lost five seniors from last year, including three who made it to the state tournament.

"We are improving every year, but we need to get more kids interested in the sport," said coach Matthew Shearer. "I predict that four to five of our wrestlers will make it to the state tournament in February. This is a reasonable goal, but it will depend on the work the team is willing to put into it."

While the team is small in numbers, Shearer said the wrestlers are dedicated to the sport.

Many of the teams newcomers are eighth graders and freshmen.

"We have one senior battling back from two years of shoulder surgery," Shearer said. "He is looking really good. "I expect him to place or possibly win a state championship if he can stay healthy. We have a few returning members that are a couple of freshmen and sophomores."

Senior Michael Grandstaff and junior Quinton Rayburn are two of the more seasoned athletes on the team, said Shearer, who added that sophomore Cody Roundtree and returning freshmen Thomas Gripshover are working hard.

"Our biggest obstacle we are facing as a team is having so many young wrestlers this year without experience," Shearer said. "These barriers will continue until we start getting the younger wrestlers from our youth program that already have a lot of experience. But on a good note, our young wrestlers are hardworking and willing to learn. Therefore, we will be able to compete."

As with every year, Shearer said the team must commit to the hard work and training necessary to prevail and maintain muscle memory.

"It is important not to get psyched out by an opponent because of appearance or status because if our wrestlers go out and wrestle the way they are taught their opponent will know they have to wrestle hard," Shearer said. "Our goal is to reach the state tournament in February. You have to place in the top four in the region. We are in region five with 10 other schools, so it will be a challenge for new young wrestlers. It is the goal of all wrestlers to make it to state and win."

BOOKS

The requirement for the Homebound delivery service is limited to patrons who are unable to visit the library because of health issues or lack or transportation.

Another aspect of the library's Outreach Services is the Library Express.

There are two Library Express boxes located in Crittenden and Corinth at Forcht Bank, formerly Grant Deposit Bank.

Patrons who are signed up for the program can request items that Harris then delivers to the boxes twice a week.

They items are returned through a drop box.

The Library Express is open to all patrons.

"I think the Library Express is a convenience for patrons who live in the Crittenden and Corinth areas," Harris said. "I deliver 20 to 40 items a month to the Library Express in Crittenden and five to10 items for the Corinth location. Many patrons are not aware of this service so we try to promote it when they sign up for a library card."

Items can be easily requested for Library Express through the library's website at www.grantlib.org or by contacting Harris at s.harris@grantlib.org or 859-824-2080.

In addition, the library also has honor books at Cinderella and Spin City laundromats, St. Elizabeth Grant County Hospital, Crooked Creek General Store, Elliston-Mt. Zion Country Store and Jonesville Grocery Store.

These are books that can be borrowed and returned without checking them out.

For more information, call the Grant County Library at 824-2080.

Sheriff's office seeks break-in suspect

Sheriff Chuck Dills said there were several storage unit break-ins at the businesses a few months ago before surveillance cameras were installed.

The video shows a white male, wearing a light-colored hat, dark pants and a hooded sweatshirt cutting locks and throwing them.

Elliston-Stanley to host Celebration of Remembrance

As providers of funeral services on the community since 1881, the staff of the Stanley Funeral Homes is aware the holidays are often a difficult time for those who have experienced the death of a loved one.

This year the staff of the Elliston-Stanley Funeral Homes in Williamstown and Crittenden will host the 20th annual 'Celebration of Remembrance' at 3 p.m. on Dec. 7 in the funeral home's Williamstown chapel.

The guest speaker for the 'Celebration of Remembrance' will be Bro. David Cahoon, pastor of the Mt. Olivet Christian Church. Music will be provided by Tammie Price.

Dennis Stanley of Elliston-Stanley said the service had been designed to help people of all ages cope with the loss of a loved one. This will be a sensitive program with practical ideas and hope for the living through the first year of bereavement.

Stanley said that the service is not only for families we have served in the past year but also for all families in the community who have lost a loved one. Other families who wish to participate in the 'Celebration of Remembrance' should contact the Elliston-Stanley Funeral home by Nov. 26 and give them the name to be inscribed on the ornament.

The service is free and all residents of the community are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served following the service. For more information, call 859-824-3374. In case of inclement weather, call 859-824-4004 to determine delay or cancellation of services.

WRECKS

The driver was mechanically extracted from the vehicle and the University of Cincinnati Air Care personnel attended to his injuries.

Peacher died from injuries suffered in the collision and was pronounced dead by the Air Care flight doctor.

The passenger, Judith Peacher, 75, also of Hamilton, suffered incapacitating injuries and was taken by ambulance to UC Hospital where she is being treated.

The Walton and Crittenden fire departments also responded to the scene.

Earlier in the day, Kenton County Police also were called to a scene of a single-vehicle collision at 11:22 a.m. near the 167 mile marker of northbound I-75.

Archie Coldiron, 88, of Crittenden, was driving his 1999 Dodge Ram 4x4 pickup truck when the vehicle exited the roadway on the east side, according to police.

The truck hit a deep drainage culvert before being redirected 90 degrees and continuing to travel down a steep embankment and hitting a tree.

Coldiron suffered serious injuries and was transported to UC Hospital by an Air Care helicopter.

Coldiron is in serious, but stable condition, according to police.

Both accidents, which caused traffic to be halted as the helicopter landed on I-75, remain under investigation by the Kenton County Police Department.
